DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1 applicant specifies that the probe body for positioning substantially only the gas permeable tube inside the enclosure. However, from a reading of the specification it is unclear as to what this limitation defines. There is no description in the specification which even hints at what the above-mentioned limitation defines.

Claim 11 constitutes a process limitation. It is indefinite as to how the tube probe is further structurally defined by the limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 1744

4. Claims 1,6-12, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the Austin, G.D. et al.

The Austin et al. article discloses a probe (figure 1) which comprises a single piece of stainless steel tube, the interior of the tube constitutes the inlet channel, and the carrier gas feed line the outlet channel, a sealing mechanism in the form of flanged fitting with o-ring, a gas permeable tube positioned at the bottom of the tube. The probe tube, sealing mechanism and silicon tubing are positioned relative to one another such that substantially only the silicon tubing is positioned within the fermenter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 1744

6. Claims 2-5,13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Austin et al.

Claims 2,3, and 14 define a supporting plate for supporting the silicon tubing. The Austin et al. article discloses a small cylindrical mesh sleeve which fits to the end of the tube for supporting the silicon tubing. This mesh sleeve is considered to be functionally equivalent to the claimed supporting plate.

Also, the use of adapters to connect two tubes of differing diameters is known and within the kin of the routineer.

In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device. Accordingly, claim 15 is considered to be obvious in view of Austin et al.
